“ I’ve been knowing and going to school with her and April forever. Never seen them apart. I used to think they were twins lol. Even worked at some of the same places together. The women are so kind, and always been so sweet and beautiful to everybody. She didn’t deserve that. I will keep her babies, sister and family in my prayers 💜 Just take it one day at a time. Sometimes by the minute.grief have no time limit, so y’all get through this the best you can ❤️

“ Shauna you were definitely everything to everyone. It’s so funny cause you were always “team no new friends” but was always coming up with new friends and made each one of us feel like we were the “best” friend. We appreciate you for that. Your smile and laughter was infectious, something that will be greatly missed. I’ve been your friend and sister since the sixth grade and have never seen you truly upset at anyone, I mean you’d get ruffled but not like others where someone could say “unh what’s wrong with her?!” No, you always kept a smile even when life was caving in around you. I admired you for so many reasons. You taught me a lot over the years and for that I am grateful. I miss you so much Shauna but I know that God sent you here for a reason and felt that you had completed your task. You taught others how to love unconditionally and without boundaries. You just don’t know sis, you set the world on fire. We just wish you had more time to watch it burn. I love you and am missing you madly. Thank you for the years. ❤️💕💕

“ My heart is hurting right now because my best friend since the first grade has left me. You would always joke that I better not leave you but you left me. It's not fair I always thought that would be two old ladies on the phone gossiping but life had different plans. I know God knows best but it's hard to believe this was in His plan. I have nothing but memories of you that I'll cherish forever. You were never just a friend but a sister. You were in the delivery with me as I gave birth to my child. I truly miss you. It just doesn't seem real that you're not here. I remember you learning how to drive, I would let you drive my car in the parking lot, you would scare the hell of me but I didn't care because I wanted you to learn how to drive. The time you were mad at your mom and when out in the snow with you night gown calling me tell me and I told to go back inside. You were full of life beautiful inside out always smiling no matter what. I'm going to miss my girl guess what calls. You were amazing mother with two very blessed and beautiful son which I know you're watching over. Now you get to be with your baby girl but we are here heartbroken because of the pain. All I can do is cry because I lost more than a friend I loss my sister. I can go on and on but I always told how I felt. Forever loved rest up until we meet again. I love you sista!
